Old Engineer John Masters was careless that way on a steep North Carolina mountain side once, when he had a slippery track ahead and a heavy string of freight cars behind him.

That was before the day of the safety siding devices of the hili roads and brakes were mighty essential to safety and good brakes at that. John's brakes were not doing their duty and the old man at the throttle had visions of a locomotive smashed shape-less against a mountain peak and himself a bleedy blot on the land-

Not so far from that point was a little girl, fatter than the first, but not an inch tailer, who was carefully guiding a friendly but undecided pine-rooter across the road. Great concern was written in the face of the leader of the swine, which seemed still undecided.

The look of coaxing which went with much pleading faded out of the face of the lass, at the pine-rooter finally made up his dirty mind and went meandering off in the other direction. A serious disappointment was evident in the eyes of the little lass, at the dereliction of Mr. Pis.

Speaking of dirt, the little girl was not a bit cler her than the dirty pine rooter, but she looked like a natural product of the woodland. A beauty, she were.

Her face and sturdy little legs and pretty rounded arms might mark her the child of trace of kings, who quaked inwardly at bigger kings, or lords, who botted an humble knee to kings, or yeomen, who trembled be-for their lords. She looked a little

Both, however intimated there was a probability of such a conference and that it might occur next week. They were awaiting the arrival of Fernando Izlesias Calderon, leader of the Mostican Liberal party; expected tomorrow.

Spurgeon says "The thought that the thought lies in the well of JUST POLITICS

There was a good deal of politics in Anderson yesterday, and all pleasant and friendly. A lot of friends of Gov. Blease were caled to meet her to get copies of his St. Matthew's speech and to distribute them throughout the county. The governor had 100,090 copies printed and to say the least they are "interesting, if not conclusive." The speech made over 20 columns or about three solid pages in any newspaper, and none of the papers could handle it completely, and at the same time give his opponents' replies.

Col. Fred H. Dominick, candidate for congress from this district, was present at this meeting, which was held at Solicitor K. P. Smith's office at 2 o'clock, and he made a very clear statement of the rules of the party to the men who came to the meeting was impressed upon all present that they must enroll their full names, although Mr. Dominick stated that he did not think the law would let them lose their votes if they enrolled the names that they use in signing any legal papers. However, all were urg-ed to be on the safe side. Every one present was urged to get all of his neighbors properly enrolled at once. But a month remains in which to do

Col. William I. Mahaffey, otherwise known as "Bilt," came over from Williamston yesterday on business and gave the announcement that there would be a rally of the Williamston No. 2 club next Wednesday night, July 1st. There will be speaking by several invited guests and music by the First regiment hand. Every nercon in eral invited guests and music by the First regiment band. Every person in the community will be given an opportunity to sign the club rolls. "Bill" admits that he has been urged to run for the legislature, but he says he can't see any fun in it, and he wants fun out of polities.

There was some talk on the streets yesterday that John T. Long of the northwestern part of the county would come out for supervisor, but has stated that he has not yet been able to see his way clear to do so, althogh he has not decided definitely. Mr. Long has a most beautiful home, the former residence of the late D. K. Nerris, and he is one of the big farmers of the state the state of the ers of the state. He has extensive private interests to look after, and this is what is holding him back.

It was stated yesteriny that Geo. M. Reid would offer for supervisor, but he has listed for the legislature. He is a substantial citizen and a few years ago made a strong race for supervisor. He will be hard to keep out of the legislature and he will make a capable and earnest representative when he gets there.

J. H. Wright of Rock Mills entered the race for county commissioner from that section and R. Ware Austin of Belton for auditor.
